

WHAT ARE ACCESSIBLE PSYCHOLOGICAL INTERVENTIONS (API) SERVICES?

Accessible Psychological Interventions (API) is a free mental health service for people with mild to moderate mental health needs who live in South Eastern Melbourne, providing flexible psychological supports that are matched to your needs.

Support may include cognitive-behavioural therapy, skills training, psycho-education, relaxation strategies and other evidence-based interventions. Each session will run for approximately 1 hour and may be provided individually or in a family/group setting. The frequency of your appointments are flexible and will depend on your needs at the time.

Once you have been offered API services, you will see one or more of the following professionals: psychologist, mental health social worker, occupational therapist or a mental health nurse.

API services are part of the Mental Health Stepped Care model which means you can 'step up' into more intensive services or 'step down' into less intensive services, as your mental health needs change.
